Alderman wants firehouse closed

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The city's telephone tax continues to be a source of contention among Granite City aldermen.

At the council meeting Tuesday, an unexpected proposal by 3rd Ward Alderman Brett Hanke to repeal the tax, close the firehouse in West Granite and lay off eight firemen caused many aldermen to again argue the merits of the issue.

Though the motion died for lack of a second, Hanke, who has supported the tax, said he made the proposal to illustrate why the tax was needed. He also said he believed the firehouse should be closed as a cost-cutting measure.

"In all fairness to the citizens, tell them what they are going to lose," if the tax is eliminated, (See FIREHOUSE, Page 14A)

Residency rule may oust Pontoon officer

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — Patrolman Thomas Watts still doesn't know what his future is with the Pontoon Beach Police Department, but he will get his "day in court."

Watts does not live within the village's corporate limits and a special waiver is required for a non-resident to serve on the force to comply with a village ordinance.

The issue came up at Tuesday night's Board of Trustees meeting when Watts, who resides in Maryville, requested trustees to reconsider a previous denial of a waiver.

Watts has a good reputation as a policeman, but has received three waivers of residency since joining the department in December 1984.

"He is a very good officer," one veteran member of the department said. The same sentiment also was echoed by a village official after the meeting.

A residency waiver was not authorized when the matter came up at the April 14 board meeting. At that time, it was noted then that three extensions already had been granted Watts and that the officer still had not relocated in the village.

In a split vote, a motion to extend the waiver failed and an immediate notice to relocate in the village was ordered to be served.

Ruling on rural board members sought

GRANITE CITY — A ruling will be sought to determine if two rural members are still needed on the District 9 Board of Education.

The board on Tuesday approved a suggestion by member Dewey Melton to seek a ruling on residential requirements for composition of the board.

Though the state law requiring two rural members hasn't changed, Melton said the population distribution has changed throughout the Quad City Area due to recent annexations by Granite City and Pontoon Beach communities.

The new Granite City Council will organize Monday evening. There is much speculation as to what policies the council may follow and it is also being asked whether the new council will approve the appointments of Mayor Kirkpatrick.

No misconduct found in police investigation

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — The entrapment allegation made by School Board member David Partney following his arrest April 17 on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol did not stand up to an internal investigation by Granite City Police.

"I figured that to tell you the truth," Partney said today, "I figured it would have to go to trial, which I'd like to see since there can be no doubt there about how it comes out."

The result of the investigation, called "in depth" by Police Chief Bill Harris, was released at 7 a.m. today.

"After an intensive investigation, it has been determined that the arresting Officer (Patrolman Tim Lyerla) did not violate any local, state, or federal statutes in connection with the arrest, nor did he violate any Departmental rules or regulations.

"This case will be treated and prosecuted in the same manner as all other DUI arrests.

A court hearing will be held May 14, Partney said. He said he wants to be heard in that forum.

"I feel I've got a good court case," Partney said. "We have been acquiring depositions."

Partney alleges he was "set up" by Patrolman Walter Milton Jr. in retaliation for a near fight at Charlie's Restaurant. After the alleged confrontation, a police tape has Milton setting up a meeting with Lyerla. Partney was arrested the same night.

Departmental rules do not allow Lyerla or Milton to comment.

Mayor to fire commissioner

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Getting fired is the only way Bob Barton said he will give up his seat on the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

"Then I'll fire him," Mayor Von Dee Cruse said late Wednesday.

Another commissioner, Joe Williams, will be asked to resign, Cruse said, and outgoing 4th Ward Alderman Tom Hewlett has been asked to take over.

Political fighting during the 4th Ward aldermanic race caused the rift, Barton said Wednesday. Cruse, Barton alleged, didn't want him and Williams to back then aldermanic candidate Dan Partney.

In 1989, The request was refused, Barton said.

"I told him (Cruse) ... I'd vote for who I damn well please," Barton said. "I spent all day putting up signs one Saturday for Danny Cruse. I worked my butt off after Cruse asked that."

Partney won the race against Hewlett on April 7.

"He (Barton) can think what he wants to think," Cruse said. "When I was elected two years ago I tried to put a team together and this guy ... I just feel he's not a team player. It's going to take us all working together in this administration to progress."

"I'm going to ask the other commissioner to resign," Joe Williams. He doesn't have to resign, but the same thing applies to him."

Hewlett would be a good commissioner, Cruse said, but hasn't committed to the job.

"I'm leaning toward it," Hewlett said late Wednesday.

"I'll probably be making a statement the first part of next week," Cruse said.

If appointed, Hewlett said he will examine rumors about cheating on a police examination.

"I do think a cloud kind of hangs over the whole thing," Hewlett said. "I would want to remove the cloud."

When appointed — by Cruse, Barton asked to be given a chance to resign if differences occurred, Cruse honored the request with a shake to Barton.

"Got it in this morning's mail," Barton said. "I've told him the Republican Party is not for sale. I see no reason to change. The hell with it — let him fire me."

Barton will be the second person to leave the three-member commission in recent days.

Partney resigned Tuesday because he was elected alderman, a job incompatible with commissioner duties. Williams' resignation would clear the commission of Cruse appointees.

Williams could not be reached for comment.

Police officers may not deserve stars for test scores

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Extremely high test scores achieved by two members of the police department continue to foster suspicion that cheaters are in the ranks.

Produced by International Personnel Management Association of Alexandria, Va., the 145-question police test was given more than a year ago and since that time some city officials have been quietly trying to gather evidence to prove cheating occurred.

"The highest scores reported on the 563 examination, 143 and 144, were achieved by two candidates who took the examination in Granite City, Illinois," according to a letter sent Feb. 14, 1986 from the testing company to John Hopkins, assistant city attorney. The letter contains a frequency distribution table of previous test scores from across the nation. The highest score is 117 — 27 points less than the high score in Granite City.

Joanne Adams, director of assessment services for IPMA, said she could find no comparable score to match the two Granite City ratings.

"Anybody can look at that and figure the odds of achieving those scores," Adams said.

Bob Barton, a police and fire commissioner, said he tried to uncover evidence of cheating more than a year ago, but he said there was no reason for a full investigation of one person because several had access to the test prior to it being given. He said the tests came sealed and remained that way until administered.

"I went through every one of those tests and they were not opened," he said.

The letter to Hopkins, obtained by the Press-Record, indicates the scores were unofficially investigated. Hopkins confirmed there is no solid evidence of cheating at this time.

"There's nothing definite that came out of this one way or another," Hopkins said Wednesday.

IPMA records, Adams said, show the test was mailed to the home of Dan Partney, former chairman of the city's three-member Police and Fire Commission, and alderman-elect in the 4th Ward.

"That's not particularly unusual," Adams said. "Certainly, as far as we're concerned, somebody at that level can request the tests. What's unfortunate is it's really up to the community to make sure the person in charge is both competent and trustworthy."

If anyone went to Partney to seek help on a test, that person would be in trouble, he said.

"We've run our testing program strictly by the statutes," Partney said. "Number one, they wouldn't be helped and they wouldn't be helped. Second of all, I would have to seriously consider reporting it to the other commissioners. You would not let that person take the test and you would conduct a hearing for disciplinary action."

Reporting suspected cheating is proper, said Mayor Von Dee Cruse on Wednesday. The mayor said he'd heard some time back about there being a problem, but figured it was the normal grumbling of employees who didn't get a promotion.

"I'd heard some rumors, but nothing at that time that I was really concerned with."

Two high test scores and the fact that the tests were mailed to his home concerned Partney because he said it appears "somebody with no guts" is supplying the newspaper information to "question my integrity."

"If there was any problem with that test, it should have been brought up when the test was given," he said. "If it would have been me and I would have had some problem with it, that's what I would have done."

"What makes me mad is when somebody questions my integrity. If they want to question my integrity, they should come forward and do it."

months old when the Granite City policemen took it; they wouldn't have had time to get copies. She said there's a "grain of truth" in the idea that someone could forge a city's letterhead and write for a test, but she said such letters are checked through verification calls to community officials.

"Test integrity is something we are extremely concerned with and do everything in our power to preserve," Adams said. "We can't police them, we can't follow them around and make sure tests are properly locked up."

The test issue is the latest in a series of problems for the family in recent weeks. Dan Partney's brother, School Board member David Partney, faces a contested charge of driving under the influence of alcohol. The charge department announced today that it's internal investigation revealed the arrest was properly made. "Now that it comes up after David's deal, it seems like a vendetta," Dan Partney said. "It seems like an ironic time for somebody to bring up something like this. It seems like they want to come after me too, to discredit our family's name."

Fourth Ward Alderman Tom Hewlett, who will step down from that post May 5, said Wednesday that if he is made a commissioner by Cruse then the matter will again be checked.

"If it were me and I was in that town, I wouldn't let something like that die," she said. "It's a very important issue."

"I went through every one of those tests and they were not opened."

BEST FOOT FORWARD

Dr. Claude Hiles, D.P.M.

ARCH PAINS

In many cases, pain in the arch stems from plantar fasciitis, inflammation of the broad, strong band of tissue on the bottom of your foot. This band helps support your arch so it doesn't collapse under your body weight.

Running and jumping can strain the fascia, causing irritation and a dull, painful ache. Overweight also can stretch the plantar ligaments, as will prolonged standing.

Sudden foot twisting, excessive pronation, or uncomfortable footwear could tear this band, worsening the disorder. Physiotherapy may be useful in relieving the acute phases, but a prescribed orthotic insert helps establish a biomechanical correction. Heel cups or prescribed arch supports are useful, too.

Carnival Glass will be topic of historical group

Clyde Lee will be the speaker at the May 4 meeting of Old Six Mile Historical Society at 7:30 p.m. in Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road.

Lee, retired principal of the Mitchell and Webster schools, will tell the history of Carnival Glass and its use in the homes of that period, 1880 to 1920.

He will illustrate his talk with many colors and patterns of glass on display. Its popularity was followed by "Depression glass" designs during the 1930s.

The public is invited to attend this meeting and learn of an art form that was popular in many homes.

The opening of the museum on this 150th Anniversary of the Emmert-Zippel property May 16 from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m. will be discussed. It will include an arts and crafts fair, barbecue, other foods, and entertainment.

Spaces are still available for the fair by contacting Elma Hoover, 876-0606.

Tickets will go on sale soon for a musical play, "The Quilters," written by Georgia Engelke and Linda Koenig.

It will be given May 30 at 2 p.m. in the Granite City Township Hall. A quilt display will accompany the performance.

The refreshments committee will include Tamea Kirchoff, Florence Simpson and Freddy McElroy.

Divorce support group active here

A divorce support group is meeting each Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Church of Christ, 2130 Clark Ave. Gale Thornton, the host pastor, has announced.

Thornton said all persons needing support with a divorce problem are invited to attend.

This is not a religious program but is designed to help people work through the problems involved in divorce and has the total support of the church congregation," he said.

"There is no evaluation; this is just a talk and share program. Eventually as the program builds, we want to bring the children and family together for social outings, such as a picnic at the park."

Anyone wishing additional information may contact Thornton at 951-1572.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

The Crime Stoppers law enforcement program has been started in many Illinois communities. The program is based on anonymous tips from the public. Any tip which leads to an arrest and indictment will result in cash awards to the anonymous caller. In one recent case, the issue arose as to whether a defendant who was charged with a crime was entitled to the name of the person who contacted the police department.

In Illinois, the prosecution must disclose any information within its possession which tends to show that the accused is not guilty of the crime or which would tend to reduce his punishment for a crime committed. However, disclosure of an informant's identity will not be required if this identity is a prosecution secret and a failure to disclose would not infringe the constitutional rights of the accused.

In a 1986 case, a defendant was charged with possession of a stolen vehicle and theft after an anonymous informant called the Crime Stoppers hotline and stated that he had seen the defendant steal the vehicle. The defendant asked the Court to dismiss the charges against him, arguing that the policy of the Crime Stoppers program was to discourage callers from identifying themselves. He noted that the caller might potentially be a witness who could clear him of the charge. He felt that he had been denied his constitutional right of due process in fully preparing and trying his case by not having access to the name of the informant.

The trial court found that the anonymous caller was an eyewitness to the occurrence, and that the State had a duty to obtain the name of the informant. Therefore, the trial court dismissed the case against the defendant.

The Appellate Court recognized the public interest in obtaining information concerning the commission of crimes through encouraging citizens to communicate their knowledge of criminal activity. The Court noted that it was important to allow law enforcement officials to preserve the anonymity of informants. The Court reasoned that since the prosecution did not possess the name of the informant, it was under no duty to disclose information they did not possess. The Court noted that it was doubtful that the defendant would be able to use information provided by the anonymous informant in his favor or trial. Therefore, the Appellate Court reversed the trial judge's order dismissing the case.

Transit district buys radio tower

The Madison County Transit District Board approved buying a radio tower and equipment to cost of $65,000.

The tower, purchased from Wise Communications, is on Sunset Hill, along Illinois 157 across the highway from Day's Inn.

district wants to sell the surrounding land, the money could be used against the purchase price.

The district had been using the communications company's tower prior to the purchase, paying $7.50 for each radio use. The state requires each transit district bus be radio-equipped.

Millionaire Club honor won by four

Charlotte Charbonnier, William Frazier and Joseph Hassler, local agents for the State Farm Insurance Companies in the Granite City area, and Michael Toundas, retired agent for State Farm, have earned membership in the firm's 1986 Millionaire Club.

This sales honor is based primarily on the quality and quantity of life insurance sold and serviced by the agent. Only about one in four State Farm agents attains membership in the club. Charbonnier joined State Farm in 1984 and has qualified twice. Frazier joined State Farm in 1961 and has qualified 11 times. Hassler joined State Farm in 1958 and has qualified eight times. Toundas, who retired April 1, joined State Farm in 1955 and has qualified 14 times. State Farm is one of the world's largest insurance compa-

Madison promotes firemen

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON — Aldermen approved the promotion of seven cadet firemen to the rank of probationary fireman on the recommendation of Fire Chief Eldon Rhoads at a City Council meeting April 21.

Those elevated in rank were Joe Bisto, Jeff Bridick, Keith Enders, Ed Hoover, Mark Rhoads, Dan Sipes and Steve Watson. All successfully completed the necessary testing to be moved up to probationary rank, Rhoads said.

Councilmen approved a request of Rhoads to send four firemen to the 63rd annual Illinois Fire College and to allow $300 per man for expenses. The college will be held June 4-7 at Champaign.

"I feel it is important for members of our department to attend this college, where they will learn updated firefighting techniques. They can bring this knowledge back to Madison to share with other members of the department. This benefits the entire city," the fire chief said.

Mayor John Bellicoff told the council he would meet with other mayors and Aaron Ridenhour April 22 to discuss extending the boundaries of the Enterprise Zone in the Quad City Area.

Some of the Granite City Army installations warehousing and acreage has been taken over by the Tri-City Regional Port District and this will provide an area to attract small manufacturing businesses, Bellicoff said.

The state-authorized enterprise zone makes possible partial waiver of property taxes.

A water line extension to an annexed area of Madison may be started within a month, the mayor said. He is meeting in late April with the Illinois-American Water Co. to finalize the proposal and will present it to the City Council at its May 4 session, he said.

Bellicoff discussed offers being made for the city's Chain of Rocks Bridge and surrounding property, including an inquiry from a Texas company. "If we can finalize this, it will mean a lot to the city," he added.

Prospective new Madison businesses include a quick shop or fast food shop, possibly on the corner of Fourth Street and Madison Avenue or at Edwardsville Road and McCambridge Avenue, he said. Discussions will be continued with the business people, Bellicoff told the council.

The Madison Business Association has asked that a corner of Fourth and Madison be utilized as off-street parking for customers patronizing the Madison business district.

Aldermen gave permission to the Madison Junior-Senior Club to hold a "block" at Sixth Street and Madison Avenue from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 2. Proceeds are to be donated to Hospice of Madison County.

An invitation was received from Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 and the auxiliary to Memorial Day services at 10 a.m. on May 25 on the grounds of the post, 740 Bfoggway, Venice.

DAV van here May 6

Harold Menzel, commander of Disabled American Veterans Chapter 53, has announced that local veterans and their families will have an opportunity to visit the DAV service van on May 6 at the DAV Home, 1417 19th St. All veterans and their families are invited to visit the field service unit to discuss any problem with a DAV national service officer.

"Remember to bring your VA claim number and Social Security number with you," he said. The free service will be available from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Wednesday, May 6. The service van will be manned by trained DAV service officers who will be offering assistance to veterans and their families concerning all Veterans Administration benefits they may be entitled to, including disability compensation, loan guarantees, medical and health care, pension, vocational rehabilitation, education, burial, social security benefits and other veterans entitlement programs administered by the VA and the Social Security Administration, the commander said. More than 400,000 veterans, survivors and dependents from all across America have taken advantage of the free service offered by the DAV during the last 13 years.

"We come to you because we realize it is not always possible for you to travel long distances to come to us," said Darrel Babcock, supervisor of the Chicago National Service Office of the DAV.

"Our service officers are employed by the DAV and they are dedicated to obtain benefits and entitlements for disabled veterans, their families and dependents," he said. "The DAV is not a government agency. We are an association of over 1 million disabled wartime veterans dedicated to helping our fellow veterans. That's why we have earned the trust of America's veterans and families the past 67 years," said Arthur H. Wilson, DAV national service director.

urologist, testing with the most up-to-date ultrasound equipment, urine testing, and information to help insure a healthy future.

All men, over the age of 50 experience some prostate problems as a normal part of the aging process, a spokesman said. These problems can include benign enlargements, infection and cancer. Cancer of the prostate is the second most common cancer found in men today. Early diagnosis is crucial for effective therapy and cure, it was noted. For further information on the prostate screening, 798-3485 can be called.

Bill would ban radioactive waste shipments in area

Radioactive waste from Three Mile Island might not be transported through the Metro East and St. Louis areas if a bill introduced in Congress April 22 becomes law.

U.S. Rep. Jack Buechner, R-Kirkwood, is sponsoring legislation that would force federal officials to look for alternative routes for shipping the radioactive waste from the Pennsylvania nuclear power plant.

The measure deals with shipment of low-level and high-level radioactive waste.

Buechner said there are stringent regulations for shipping the waste on the highways but few guidelines for railway shipment.

The bill calls for the federal government to seek routes through less-populated areas. Also, the measure calls for a 30-day advance notice of a shipment in the Federal Register rather than the seven-day notice now given to governors.

Trains carrying Three Mile Island hazardous waste currently roll through the bi-state metropolitan area.

Workbook fees increased

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON — A new policy for band students and a hike in elementary workbook fees have been approved by the Board of Education.

Due to a problem that surfaced this year for graduating seniors, Superintendent of Schools Dan Kostencik prepared a policy in conjunction with the State Board of Education relating to students who enter the band program in lieu of a physical education class.

If students did not continue in band they were then obliged to complete the physical education requirements prior to graduation. This year, some pupils found there was not time before graduation to conform to this regulation.

The policy read in part that "students graduating in the classes of 1987, 1988 and 1989 will fall under the following temporary exceptions: students exempted from PE in their freshman year in order to stay in the band program, but subsequently dropped band due to schedule conflicts, will receive a waiver of the freshman physical education requirement.

"They must pass at least two years of PE and, when possible for a student to do so, it is recommended by the administration that they pass three years of physical education."

"Students not affected by the above exceptions will be expected to pass four years of PE for graduation from Madison High School."

Students must file a letter with him requesting the exception. Kostencik said.

For the 1987-88 year, grade school pupils will pay more for workbooks.

Proposed fees were submitted by Dolores Folkerts, curriculum director. She listed the actual costs from 1984-85 to the 1986-87

Kindergarten workbook cost during the three years rose from $10.94 to $19.05; first grade $20.23 to $40.62; second grade $18.29 to $31.74; and third grade $12.29 to $23.85.

—Fees for the 1986-87 and 1987-88 school years follow: kindergarten, $7 increased to $10; first second and third grades increased from $10 to $15; fourth, fifth and sixth grades, $4 increased to $8; and seventh and eighth grades, remaining the same at $10.

School cooks were authorized to attend a spring workshop meeting on April 28.

Mrs. Cynthia Kolakowski at Richard Harmon were authorized to visit the teacher resource room at Parks College and Loretta Cook, teacher, a handicapped at Hahn School, will attend a symposium May 7 on "Attention Disorders."

Academy planning auction

On Saturday, May 2, at 10 a.m. on the corner of 21st and Benton streets, Gateway Christian Academy will be hosting a benefit auction to help support the alternative educational program of the school, Mark Warren, administrator, said.

Many businesses in the area will be donating items to be auctioned. Parents and school supporters also have given articles.

Included will be office equipment, typewriters, copiers, adding machines, tools, household items, 5-shp rototillers, a wall furnace, a shaper wood-working tool and many more items.

Those donating items are contacting Shirley Goodall at 876-6896; those with items for sale are calling Bud Phelps at 877-6717, Warren said.

State ends 1 percent student insurance fee

SPRINGFIELD — In a time of increasing costs for higher education, the state of Illinois has some good news for Illinois students, parents and lenders. The Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC), the state agency responsible for administering 13 financial assistance programs, has announced the elimination of its 1 percent student insurance fee for Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL's), PLUS Loans and Supplemental Loans for Students (SLS). This action will become effective for student loans with loan term dates beginning on or after July 1. Coupled with its earlier announcement about the new Application for Federal and State Student Aid (AFSSA), Illinois now offers its students both a free application to apply for federal and state student aid and no student insurance fee for GSL, PLUS and SLS loans. As a guarantor, the ISSC has the authority to charge up to 3 percent for the fee, but has chosen not to charge any fee. The student loan insurance fee is subtracted from the face value of the loan prior to the disbursement by the lender and then transmitted to the ISSC as the guarantor. Elimination of the fee means more money for students to apply toward their education; it also means less paperwork for over 1,300 Illinois lenders, the ISSC said.

Kee for success

GLASS-BLOWING Visiting artist Brett Kee Young explains techniques he uses in creating a "shoal piece" — a textured, layered vase — after blowing the basic form through a glassmaker's rod. Young, of the Cleveland Institute of Art, spent a day in workshops with art and design students and guests at the Wagner Complex of SIUE. The visit coordinator was Paul Dresang, associate professor of ceramic and glass studies.

SENIOR CITIZENS WHO PURCHASE LONG-TERM CARE MAKE A WISE DECISION.

A 13 week stay in a nursing home will impoverish two-thirds of single elderly people over age 66, and one-third of the same age who are married, according to the House Aging Committee.

Medicare pays less than 2% of nursing home expenses. You are responsible for more than 98%. The average cost is $1500.00 a month. This is determined by the American Care Association.

In instances, the elderly must sell their homes and other possessions, the surviving family members are left with nothing but poverty due to large debts, incurred for long term nursing home care.

You can prevent this from happening to you and your family. The Illinois Department of Insurance has approved several plans for this state. There is a plan to fit your needs available. NO AGE LIMIT.

Harold E. "Gene" Briggs, regional superintendent of schools of Madison County, has received an honorary doctor of laws degree from McKendree College in Lebanon, Ill. McKendree President Gerrit J. TenBrink presented the award during McKendree's annual Founders Day banquet April 9 at Fischer's Restaurant in Belleville.

Briggs, born and raised in Granite City, graduated from McKendree in 1950 with a bachelor of arts degree in physical education. He has since spent 34 1/2 years in education, including 11 1/2 years as Madison County's regional superintendent of schools, a post from which he will retire this summer.

Briggs received a master of science in education degree from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1957. He received his educational specialist's certificate from SIU at Edwardsville in 1969.

Throughout his career in education, Briggs has received numerous awards, including last year the "Those Who Excel" award from the Illinois State Board of Education. Other regional superintendents of Southern Illinois nominated him to receive the award.

During his tenure in Madison County, Briggs has been instrumental in establishing:

- The Madison County Teacher Center.

- A school violence/disruptive behavior handbook and in-service training.

- An educational therapy center with day and residential programs.

- A county truant officer.

- The Madison County Truants Alternative Program.

- A drug abuse handbook and in-service training.

- A Madison County curriculum council.

Briggs is a member of the Illinois Principals Association, Illinois Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, Southwestern Superintendents Forum, Illinois Association of School Business Officials, Illinois Association of Teacher Educators and Lewis & Clark Reading Council.

He will be succeeded as regional school superintendent by his nephew, Harry A. Briggs Jr., principal of Niedringhaus Elementary School in Granite City.

Selling cars prescription for Novotny

John Novotny always had his head under the hood, but never really thought he'd grow up to own his own auto dealership.

"It is truly a dream come true for me," said Novotny, speaking of his car and truck dealership at 151 Niedringhaus Ave.

The dealership, he said, is the product of years of hard work and a small measure of luck. "I was at the right place at the right time," he said.

In college, Novotny studied to become a pharmacist, but his love of cars, Chevrolets in particular, led him to Don Placke. "I've always been a car fanatic," he said. "My father was a good friend of Placke's and I would always stop by Placke's Chevrolet. So when I realized that pharmacy was not my cup of tea, I went to work for Placke."

That was more than 30 years ago. "I started in the business as a porter," Novotny said. "Basically, I pushed a broom and helped prepare new cars for sale after their arrival."

"I went up through the ranks with Placke until 1973. That is when the dealership was sold to Jack Matthews Chevrolet and I became general sales manager for him."

After Jack Matthews Chevrolet lost its lease at that location, Novotny went to work for Fred Broeg Chevrolet on Lemay Ferry Road. He served as fleet and lease manager there for more than a year and a half.

Then late in 1984, and Matthews' father decided to retire from the business, Novotny said, "I was offered the managerial position at Jack Matthews Chevrolet, so I left Broeg and came over here to the dealership's present location," he said.

Once again, opportunity knocked when Novotny was offered the chance to purchase the dealership. On June 1, 1984, Jack Matthews Chevrolet became John Novotny Chevrolet, and a lifelong goal was achieved.

"In three years we've gone from 18 employees to 39, and we've expanded our facilities to include a truck center at 4068 Nameoki Road," he said. "At any given time, we may have as many as 130 new cars and trucks on our lots."

Novotny said he credits his success to his dedication to serve the needs of the residents in his community.

"Basically, what we've done is to try to get the people in our locale to purchase from us rather than to buy elsewhere," he said.

Novotny said word of mouth is very important to his business.

"Our sales and our service to our customers are both top priority," he said.

His sales are positively reflecting this attention to customer satisfaction, he said.

Two of his top-selling cars are "Celebrity and Cavalier, because of their price and economy," Novotny said.

Aerodynamic styling of today is also going to be the trend of the future, he predicted.

"The 1988 cars and trucks will follow along that line," he said.

Novotny is dedicated to the Granite City area, he said. His dealership sponsors several athletic teams and Novotny is a member of several civic organizations.

"We're all active in the community," he said.

His dealership has received several awards.

"Our dealership has been recognized by Chevrolet as one of its top performers overall," he said.

"Our next objective is to get a new facility," he said, adding that whatever the future may hold for him, "it will be in the Granite City area."

IRS audits are based on computer variance

Income tax worries ended when the form was before filed April 15 deadline, right?

Chances are it is right. However, the Internal Revenue Service does audit a number of returns and may require additional documentation in some cases to substantiate claims made on your return.

How does the IRS decide which returns to audit? One major way today is through the use of computer technology.

In fact, all returns received by the IRS are fed into a computer, which then "kicks out" those returns that show a marked variance from a given normal response on tax form questions. A predictive model, based on historical data from previous taxpayers' forms, is used as the norm.

All returns are scored. The more responses vary from the norm, the higher the score will be.

Returns that receive a high score from the computer may then be examined by IRS experts to determine if a basis exists for an audit.

An audit, however, is not a statement that something is wrong with one's return, but only that additional information may be required to verify claims made on the return, said Larry Le Grand, an IRS manager, St. Louis.

Though use of computer technology to score returns is one way a form may be audited, random selection are also used, Le Grand said.

Taxpayers who claim tax shelter such as churches and other groups and tax protesters — those who may refuse to pay all or part of their taxes — are also groups that may require a closer look by IRS experts.

What should one do is his return should be audited by the IRS?

Don't panic, say experts. Be prepared to supply all information requested by the IRS, said Michael Klein, a senior manager in the tax department at Peat Marwick, a "Big Eight" accounting firm.

Having supporting information readily available and well organized is the best way to minimize chances of paying more, Klein said.

A little cooperation from the public makes the IRS' job a lot easier as well, Le Grand said. The IRS attempts to be as "least intrusive as possible" in fulfilling its mission, Le Grand said, while ensuring that taxpayers — and businesses — pay the honest amount mandated by Congress.

Nationwide in 1985, 3 percent of individual returns were audited, though that figure was higher for certain income groups, Le Grand said.

Bank account titles affect SSI

One of the most difficult issues involved in determining resources for SSI eligibility is bank accounts. It is important that the title on any bank account is precise and that it accurately reflects ownership and access.

In order to determine if an individual is eligible for Supplemental Security Income payments, the Social Security Administration must investigate all bank accounts which the individual owns.

Social Security determines whether a person has legal ownership of a bank account, by looking at the way the account is titled. If the title shows the individual (or some other person whose assets are attributable to the individual) is the owner of the account and has unrestricted access to the funds, then Social Security must count the funds as a resource.

Proper titling is especially critical in situations where community, civic or social groups collect funds for an individual's medical expenses.

New firm develops transit system map

The Bi-State Development Agency has published its first comprehensive transit system map in two decades. The map has met with rave reviews by passengers of the transit system who have received it free of charge.

Most major transit systems choose from a handful of national firms for the production of first-class system guides. Bi-State, however, called on a new local minority firm, Harris Graphic Design.

The principal of the company, Lee Harris, said the Bi-State map already has made him a competitor for the nation's transit system guides. He has been in contact with several major transit systems and, according to Harris, the prospects look good for doing system maps for other transit agencies.

"Normally, large design firms do transit maps. I'm not aware of any small firms doing this kind of business," Harris said. "I've been doing maps as well as graphic work for 20 years. I feel I can do this kind of job more economically than a big company and offer a faster turnaround time, too."

His first mapping work was done for the Illinois Department of Transportation. Then he was employed for 19 years by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, the transportation planning body for the St. Louis area. There he was responsible for a variety of graphics projects, including annual reports, photography, printing coordination and production of maps related to the council's regional planning functions.

Harris Graphic Design was established in 1978 as Harris moonlighting job. By May 1986, when he made it his full-time job, he had produced work for Bi-State and dozens of major clients. His client list includes the Regional Commerce and Growth Association, Southwestern Bell, Price Waterhouse, the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition, General Railroad Equipment and Service, Lester B. Knight & Associates and Daniel, Mann, Johnson & Mendenhall.

Bi-State's executives wanted the map to show sufficient detail to permit riders to plan trips anywhere across their system. That required a general map of the metropolitan area, another focusing on St. Louis and the immediate suburbs, and enlargements of the St. Louis, Clayton, East St. Louis and Belleville central business districts.

Originally we were just going to plot routes and label them by their own names, but Bi-State wanted to show riders the streets and intersections each route touches. They wanted to make this a comprehensive directory of all the routes and connections so someone could use it to travel anywhere," Harris said.

The map unfolds to 26 by 28 inches. "We wanted to make it bigger but were limited by the printing capabilities available in the area. To handle all the detail we wanted, the original boards I worked on were 5x6 feet," Harris said.

He worked with base maps from the U.S. Geological Survey. To clearly illustrate Bi-State's 130 routes, he used 11 separate ink colors. "It would have been cheaper to stick with a four-color or printing process and work with variations on those colors, but we decided the added impact of 11 colors justified the additional expense," he said.

That choice meant the paper stock had to make two passes through a six-color press. In addition to the maps, the guide locates 84 major tourist attractions in the area. Seven of the folds describe Bi-State and its bus service with information on bus stop locations, route numbers, fares, park-ride lots, charter services, monthly passes and phone numbers for route information and suggestions.

The cover fold features a stunning photograph of the St. Louis skyline at sunset. Harris shot that picture, too. "I like to do as much of a job as I can because it gives me control. I'm the one interacting with the client and know what they want. It's easier for me to interpret that than try to explain it to someone. I always seek to supply my client with the finished product they envisioned."

The reaction of Bi-State officials and passengers so far indicates they got what they wanted.

East-West council pleads copter case

A network of helicopter terminals may be established throughout the bi-state metropolitan area in the years ahead.

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council on April 25 conducted a public information meeting at the McDonnell Douglas manufacturing complex in north St. Louis County as part of a federally-mandated feasibility study for the project. The study, conducted at a cost of $144,000, is intended to provide a framework to improve the coordination of existing helicopter landing facilities on both sides of the Mississippi River.

"We were caught up in the battle between Missouri and Illinois about the site of a new commercial airport," Les Sterman, East-West Gateway director, said. "We did come up with a plan for general aviation in 1965."

"We're looking at the need for heliports (in the future, and) maybe some general areas where they may be located, so that we can take advantage of the opportunities when they come about."

There are 30 heliports in use in this region, according to

'We are caught up in the battle between Missouri and Illinois about the site of a new commercial airport.'

—Les Sterman

East-West Gateway officials. Over the next 20 years helicopter activity is expected to grow moderately from 35 St. Louis-based helicopters making 30,000 takeoffs and landings, to 51 helicopters in 52,200 operations from 66 helicopters in the year 2006.

Helicopters are used now in traffic and news reporting, by corporations, for medical flights, in law enforcement and as a sightseeing service. The bi-state area is one of the few that does not have a master plan dealing with non-commercial flying and general aviation, said Sterman.

Six helicopters were on display for the sparse gathering at the hearing, including the St. Louis County Police helicopter, three helicopters owned by St. Louis Helicopter Airways, a helicopter owned and operated by the State of Illinois' Division of Aeronautics (a Sikorsky S-76B) and a Bell 206-3B of Posture Helicopters.

The static display came alive when Sgt. Paul Dillender of the County Police Department lifted off in his helicopter and sped for Eureka, Mo. to aid in the search for a kidnapped 16-year-old Eureka girl.

Holly Ryan, chief flight nurse for St. Louis University Hospital, is in favor of the proposed heliport system. She said it would improve the standardization of procedures and increase the safety of patients and aircrews while airborne.

Currently only St. Louis University Hospitals operate an air-ambulance system in the metropolitan area. They operate two helicopters, with one in reserve. Ryan said the operating radius for her crews was 150 miles, an area bordered roughly by Paducah, Ky., to the south, Quincy, Ill., to the north, Evansville, Ind., to the east and Columbia, Mo., to the west.

The study began in October and findings are to be announced in September.

Topsoil loss harms farms, waterways

Much of the Illinois topsoil that is eroded by wind and rain is swept into the state's lakes, streams, rivers, and reservoirs, where it becomes the number one pollutant, water quality resources of the state. A valuable natural resource is thus lost as it enters waterways, where it impacts the environment significantly.

This gradual but enormous buildup of sediment from soil erosion, according to Illinois State Water Survey researcher Naomi Bhowmik, is a constant threat to the economic and recreational value of the state's waterways.

The sediment from erosion decreases water storage capacity as it accumulates on the bottoms of lakes and reservoirs. It also promotes noxious weed growth, acts as a pathway for contaminants, limits a lake's ability to support aquatic life, and causes turbidity that interferes with lake recreation.

"Soil erosion is a natural process," Bhowmik explains. Unfortunately, human activities greatly hasten the process. Erosion and sedimentation are processes that can neither be stopped nor eliminated. However, excess erosion can and should be stopped. The magnitude of this problem, especially its effects on our waters — is still not well defined.

"In Illinois," Bhowmik says, "about 5.6 million people rely on surface waters for potable water. Over a million of these receive their water from small lakes and reservoirs. Maintenance of lake storage capacities is thus extremely important to millions of people in numerous Illinois communities."

Bhowmik says that human activities such as road and building construction and changing agricultural practices have greatly increased soil erosion in Illinois in recent decades. Loss of topsoil from croplands is by far the leading soil erosion culprit in the state, accounting for 78 percent of the erosion load.

Much of the agricultural soil erosion can be attributed to agricultural practices including tilling marginal lands, row cropping, and fall plowing, which leave little crop debris on the surface to protect the soil and resist its movement by erosion.

The average annual rate of agricultural topsoil loss is 6.7 tons per acre, according to Illinois EPA estimates. Spread over an acre, this amount makes a layer about as thick as a sheet of paper. When this rate of loss is extended over long periods, substantial soil loss results.

Citing some extreme examples of erosion, Bhowmik says about 70 percent of the topsoil has been lost through erosion in some parts of the state. Over 1.7 million acres of Illinois cropland average more than 20 tons per acre of soil erosion annually, far above the 6.7-ton statewide average; in parts of 22 counties the annual average is over 50 tons.

Hearings set on underground tanks

Proposed federal rules for controlling underground storage tanks holding petroleum products and hazardous chemicals will be discussed at three public meetings in May, State Fire Marshal Thomas Bestudik said.

The sessions will be held in Chicago (May 13), Springfield (May 14) and Marion (May 15). They will be presented jointly by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA), the State Fire Marshal (OSFM) and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA).

Bestudik said, "The state agencies will be cooperating with other agencies, including USEPA, to coordinate all fire and contamination prevention efforts required by the proposed new rules."

Leaking underground tanks pose a significant hazard to drinking water sources, he said. Under proposed USEPA regulations, owners and operators of facilities using underground storage tanks containing petroleum products and certain hazardous chemicals will be required to monitor tanks for leaks and, in the event of a leak, notify appropriate authorities and also clean the contamination.

In addition, the owners will have to keep money to assure cleanup of contamination and to compensate damages to third parties.

The Chicago meeting will be held at the State of Illinois Center; Springfield at the Administration Building of the Illinois Department of Transportation on Dirksen Parkway; and Marion in the State Office Building at 2309 W. Main St. Meetings start at 10 a.m.

ABC, VP Fair organizers head in same direction

By Deborah Reinhardt Staff-writer

Negotiations between ABC television and organizers of the seventh annual V.P. Fair seem to be heading in the right direction.

Charles Wallace, V.P. Foundation president, said April 28 that ABC representatives will be in St. Louis May 4 through May 6 for a site survey. They will scout the Gateway Arch grounds to determine production requirements for a possible national broadcast.

According to preliminary plans, the network intends to shoot video from the Veiled Prophet Parade July 2 and fair activities from July 3, which would be broadcast nationally on a three-hour special July 4. Wallace said other July 4th activities would be cut into the presentation, but St. Louis would occupy 80 percent of programming.

ABC with a Hollywood production company, Pasetta, would provide headline entertainment on July 3 under the Arch. Pasetta produced this year's Academy Awards.

the end of the current school year in June.

"I was born and raised in North Venice and graduated from Madison High School in 1934," McCaskill said while waiting for the board to call him back into executive session last night.

He is a personable man, showing glimpses into a background of strong family ties and keen interest in all aspects of education.

Returning to the conference room, Board President Wilbert Glasper announced the board's decision and offered his congratulations to McCaskill, who was one of six finalists recommended by a Superintendent Search Committee.

George J. Moore Sr., a former 18-year Granite City School Board member, Wade James, a 38-year veteran Madison education official, and Richard Wisner of the Illinois Association of School Boards served on the search committee.

Hanke said. He said he knew before he made his proposal the council would seriously consider it at the meeting. But he said he believed the firehouse should be done away with.

When the city's new budget is prepared.

The idea of closing the firehouse was ridiculed by Aldermen Woody Moody, 6th Ward, and Sharon Perjak, 4th Ward.

Perjak suggested the "country club" firehouse on Johnson Road might be a good station to close. She said the West Granite fire house responds to many more fires and is needed more than the Johnson Road fire house.

Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitmer used the tax debate to criticize Mayor Von Dee Cruse for not clearly supporting the tax in aldermanic elections last month. Whitmer lost his re-election bid.

Watts asked to address the board Tuesday night. Trustees Louis Whitsell said he had no objection, but believed the previous action should not be rescinded without a full hearing.

Whitsell was referring to the absence of two trustees, Donald Rea and Loren Madison, who figured in the original decision and were unable to attend this week's session.

"If he (Watts) has new evidence we should hear it," Whitsell said.

Following a brief executive session, it was decided to allow Watts to present his appeal to the full board at the next meeting.

The blessing was given by Marie Long. After dessert, Mary Bailey, president, opened the business meeting. Secretary and treasurer reports were given and approved.

The mothers and daughters banquet will be May 11, the program to be given by Mrs. Ann Lilly on "Mary, Mother of Jesus," with illustrations.

A Bible study will be given on Thursday, 7:15 to 8:30, led by Dorothy Luckert. It will be in the Fidelity Class room at church, the president said.

It was decided to give a memorial to the church in memory of Mildred Hess, a former member.

The devotion was a story read by Mary Bailey called "Sincerely" by Sue Monk Kidd, from Guidedposts. The meeting was closed by holding hands and saying the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Present were Dorothy Sinetti, Bess Rucker, Mary Bailey, Marie Long, Marie Isenburg, and Henie Bailey Lehman, a guest.

Q. Wouldn't it be easier to buy T-Bills from the Federal Reserve directly, or from a Federal Reserve Bank or branch?

A. Actually, neither source is as convenient nor as simple as purchasing a Treasury or T-Bill from your bank. Even if you live close to a Federal Reserve Bank or branch, there are forms to complete, and you must bring along a certified personal or bank check for the T-Bill's full face value. Buying by mail from the Federal Reserve in Washington is time consuming and, again, there is considerable paperwork involved. Also, you must pay the full face value of the T-Bill. On the Thursday following a Monday transaction, for example, you would be sent a refund check for the discounted portion of the bill. For a small fee, your bank will take care of all the paperwork, as well as save the time and reinvestment opportunities which might be missed through the mail process.

Proof of cheating needed

Cheaters prosper. At least for awhile. There are a few in this community who wobble on a tightrope between legal and illegal, ethical and unethical, moral and immoral activities. Sooner or later they'll falter, fall and everyone will be better off for it. Some government leaders project the image that it doesn't matter what they do since they can, if challenged, use the public's money to hire a lawyer. The bitter irony is that public money is used against the public in such cases. Slumlords practice the same sort of cheating when allowing people to occupy dwellings that are clearly substandard — like one of the old, crumbling houses on Delmar that offers tenants such features as high ceilings pocked with curled flakes of cheap paint, patches of torn linoleum, and sheets of plastic to cover thinned windows that rattle in the winter wind. There's nothing new about cheating at all levels of society, so some probably didn't think much of it when learning about the allegation that members of the Granite City Police Department cheated during testing. But just as it's wrong for any adult member of the community to be complacent about the allegation, it's wrong to accept it as proof of guilt.

This isn't a cartoon world

Industries need a boost

As the debate escalates over how stern Uncle Sam should be in defending domestic industries against unfairly priced imports, steel is highly visible as one of the hardest-hit sectors of our economy. But times are relatively tough in Illinois not only because of steel but also due to problems that beset a wide range of manufacturing, a new study by State Comptroller Roland Burris has shown. Burris says, "Illinois' past dependence on heavy industry still haunts the state as it lags behind the nation in employment, although the job picture is considerably brighter than in recent years. In 1986, unemployment in our state declined to 8.1 percent, 9 percent lower than in 1985 and 3.3 percent below 1983. But the jobless rate is still 2.6 percent above the 1979 level, and 1.1 percent higher than the 7 percent national rate during '86. Unemployment continues to be a serious problem in areas that have traditionally specialized in manufacturing. Danville, the Moline area and Kankakee, all with at least 28 percent unemployment, all have jobless rates in double figures. Champaign, Bloomington and Springfield, where manufacturing accounts for less than 15 percent of jobs, all averaged less than a 6 percent jobless rate last year. Most economic forecasters expect national unemployment to where, in a few moments, good guys are separated from bad. Just as there's a little good in everybody, it's no surprise to find there's often a little bad, too. Those who allege cheating in the police department may have pure motives, or purely political motives, and what is stated should be observed from both angles. Two police officers may have cheated, or maybe they just studied exceptionally hard and did well. At this point, what happened is anyone's guess and just that — guesswork, supposition, innuendo, assumption — meaningless words strung together to equal a sum of zero because none of it, not any part of it, is anything but circumstance. If anyone in this community knows there was cheating, knows it for sure, that person has a moral obligation to say so. This community can never move forward with confidence and pride if its ranks are filled by creatures of the baser sort — cheats and liars, thieves of the public trust. If there is no such person, no irrefutable information to support the allegation, the issue should be recognized as so much rubbish and quickly discarded. If you're out there, if you're the person who knows what actually occurred, the community wants to hear from you, needs to hear from you.

continue to decline. But unless Illinois' manufacturing and agricultural sectors show significant improvement, Illinois is likely to remain above the national unemployment rate. Metro East, with nearly one-fourth of its employment in industry, saw its 1979 jobless rate of 6.8 percent soar to 12.4 percent by 1983, followed by 10.6 percent in 1984, 10.3 percent the following year and 9.2 percent in 1986. For the same years, 1979-83-84-85-86, the Illinois and U.S. figures, respectively, were 5.5 and 5.8 percent, 11.4 and 9.6, 9.1 and 7.5, 9 and 7.2, and 8.1 and 7 percent. How much suffering have imports and other factors caused in the work force? Between 1979 and 1986, the average number of Illinois workers increased 102,000 or 2 percent, from 5,131,000 to 5,233,000, and those out of work increased 164,000 or 55 percent, from 298,000 to 462,000. In contrast, across the nation workers increased 10.9 percent from 98.8 million to 109.6 million, while the ranks of the unemployed increased 34.4 percent from 6.1 million to 8.2 million. Experts see U.S. unemployment dropping to about 6.8 percent in 1987 and perhaps 6.3 percent in 1988, but Illinois may not benefit much, due to its depressed farm and factory outlook. Prosperity is staying too far out of reach. Some kind of effective federal action is called for, and soon.

Listen to No Strangers

Athletic teams often choose odd titles, including this spring's Heat and Timberwolves. But musicians also are innovative; we cite next month's Battle of the Bands at such sites as Edwardsville and St. Louis.

If you don't like the sounds of

No Strangers, Splash, Judge Baker, Straight Curves, Nemesis, Dead Beats or Mutillators, don't worry. You may prefer Excalibur, Night Storm, Third Wish, Nasty, Magnum Opus or Eternal Daze.

Letters

Clarifies value of college study

The editor: Recently your newspaper published a letter from Ted Farmer which was critical of Belleville Area Community College District 522's decision to conduct a Community Needs Assessment study. That letter has the possibility of leaving a wrong impression with your readers.

This study is the same type of research that major corporations, small businesses and public institutions must conduct periodically in order to learn the needs of consumers, plan for the future and maintain accountability. The study at Belleville Area College was initially proposed and continually promoted by me within the administration and to the Board of Trustees.

Belleville Area College served a diverse population of 370,000 persons with a 2,100 square mile area. The needs of the people in Granite City, Highland, Red Bud and other communities within our district are not necessarily the same as those of residents of the Belleville area.

According to the most recent data available from our registration office, the average age of our student population is 30. About 30 percent of our students are between the traditional college age bracket of 18 to 21. That means 70 percent are older than 21 and are returning to school after some absence.

Or to put it another way, seven of every 10 Belleville Area College students enrolled through out three campuses — Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud — could have not have been found recently walking the halls of one of the many high schools within the district.

Council meets May 5

The next meeting of the Granite City Council will be held May 5, not April 30 as was previously reported.

The city Plan Commission meeting is scheduled for April 30 at 7 p.m. to reconsider a petition to rezone an area on Nameoki Road to build a Shoney's Restaurant.

The council is expected to consider the Shoney's rezoning at its May 5 meeting.

Clarification given

In a recent article, it was stated James Albert Seisser lunged with a gun at James Buddy Clubb, the man a court declared Seisser killed. Nancy K. Seisser said Mr. Clubb lunged at her husband and Mr. Clubb had a loaded gun. She said Mr. Clubb was killed with his own weapon.

She further said Mr. Clubb's weapon was in police possession, but was not entered as evidence that would have shown Mr. Clubb had a weapon. She said a retrial may be sought. Mrs. Seisser said the fatality was not her husband's fault and that she and the children support him.

Letters policy

The Granite City Press-Record welcomes letters to the editor. The newspaper provides the "Letters" column to give readers an opportunity to voice opinions on various items of interest.

Letters should be brief. Typed letters, or letters that are neatly written are given priority treatment. Preference is also given to locally originated letters, but letters from outside the area are accepted.

Each letter must be signed and include the telephone number of the author. Authors may be called for verification purposes. Authors' names may be withheld on request, but the newspaper prefers to print names. There should be a clear reason given to the newspaper for why a name should not be used.

Letters are used as space permits in each of the three issues per week.

The Granite City Press-Record reserves the right to edit letters. Letters may be edited to conform with the newspaper's standards of style, punctuation, grammar and spelling. Long letters may be shortened. Letters containing libel will be edited to delete the libel, or not used. The letter's tone or intention will not be changed.

To participate, send your letters to: Letters to the editor, Granite City Press-Record, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, IL 62040

Good sense fights crime

George Beto, once a leader in Illinois, moved on to head the Texas penal system, and in a recent speech outlined the nature of the prison population that holds keys to reducing crime. Beto, now with the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston University in Texas, said the 19,500 inmates in prisons in that state had these characteristics:

- * 96 percent are school dropouts.
- * The average grade reached in school: fifth grade.
- * 60 percent come from broken homes.
- * 20 percent are mentally retarded.
- * 40 percent have never held a job for any significant amount of time.

What does that tell us? It suggests that a great many and crime efforts focus on the wrong thing. Serious anti-crime efforts have to include not only the obvious, such as cracking down on drugs, but also such include:

Helping students so they do not become school dropouts. Pre-school programs aid tremendously on this. But we need to do more than that. Most future school dropouts can be noticed by the second or third grades.

As soon as serious problems are detected, special efforts should be made to salvage students.

Every extra year we keep people in school reduces the probability of unemployment and crime. Yes, some people with college degrees also commit crimes. But the chances of their getting involved in crime are much less because they ordinarily have more socially acceptable ways of making a living.

Every extra year of school helps people create better options for themselves.

Policies that encourage a wholesome family life also discourage crime.

Welfare policies, for example, that encourage people to live apart cause serious long-term problems.

One of the major causes of family break-up is financial problems. To the extent we can encourage policies that lift families financially so that there is not a bitter struggle for survival, we encourage a more normal family life and less crime.

Would license fee be fair?

A proposal to increase the license fee for owners of foreign cars, up to $84 from the current $48, has been discussed. What do you think about this proposal and do you think it's fair to single out foreign car owners, who have already paid a duty on cars brought in to this country assembled, for the additional fee?

Don Wolf, Granite City

"I don't think I have my own business and we've been somewhat hurt by imports. No, I don't think it's unfair. They're hurting the job picture in this country by buying a foreign car. Let them pay a higher fee."

Rodney Minner, Granite City

"I don't think it's fair. Being a foreign car owner, I definitely don't think it's fair. It sounds like it's discriminatory against foreign car owners."

Joni Voegelé, Granite City

"I guess it would stop some people from buying foreign cars — maybe, possibly. I don't think they should penalized anyone, though. If a car is made (assembled) here, the shouldn't have to pay the higher fee."

Travel

San Diego twice blessed: by nature, man

By Tom and Joanne O'Toole
Journal correspondents

As the birthplace of the rich Spanish heritage and culture that nurtured the West Coast, there are few places in California where history and progress blend so smoothly as in San Diego, Calif.

It was nearby that Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, a Portuguese explorer under Spanish patronage, first sighted and claimed the Pacific coast in 1542. Old Town State Park is the site of California's first settlement. Historic buildings from the period 1821-1872 have been restored in the seven-square-block park.

The Cabrillo National Monument out on the tip of Point Loma offers a panoramic view of San Diego Bay, the downtown and endless red-tile rooftops and colorful bougainvillea spreading in all directions. The view on the Pacific side stretches along the coastline from La Jolla to Mexico.

The romantic past of the city is an added plus for vacationers, but what really has them flocking there in droves—almost 30 million a year—is the beauty of the city and its laid-back personality.

San Diego sits beside a spectacular natural harbor with hills rising above it, mountains and deserts beyond and beaches stretching for 70 miles along the Pacific. As if this wasn't enough, it has been acclaimed as having the nation's most perfect weather, a relaxed lifestyle and outstanding sightseeing and entertainment.

Minutes from downtown is the wooded 1,300-acre Balboa Park. One of the nation's most versatile city parks, it encompasses museums, art galleries, theaters, special exhibitions, shows and recreational facilities. Foremost among them is the renowned San Diego Zoo, considered one of the best in the country. It is the city's most popular attraction with annual attendance well beyond the 3 million mark.

If you like the zoo, you'll be enthralled with the Wild Animal Park, about 30 miles north of downtown, yet within the city limits. This 1,800-acre wildlife sanctuary allows animals to roam freely, while humans are whisked around on a 50-minute, five-mile safari aboard a quiet monorail. Open-air photo caravans are available to take visitors into the preserve, giving them a close-up look at the animals.

The other tourist headliner is Sea World, an 80-acre marine-life park on Mission Bay where trained killer whales compete with Antarctic penguins, sea lions, seals and dolphins during their daily outdoor performances.

The once-neglected downtown is bouncing back and there is a dynamic effort to make it a focal point for visitors. To help accomplish that goal, there are new hotels, splashy Horton Plaza, the popular Tijuana Trolley, excellent restaurants and plenty of enjoyable activities.

Within walking distance of all the fun are two outstanding hotels: the 223-room Westgate built in 1970 and the U.S. Grant built in 1870 and declared a national historic site. The Grant has been restored luxuriously to the tune of $85 million.

Horton Plaza is no small collection of shops. It covers seven city blocks and includes four major department stores, about 150 small stores and boutiques, restaurants, a couple of art dealers, a cinema and the San Diego Art Center.

The Victorian Gaslamp Quarter—laced with gas lamps, brick sidewalks and benches—was once the notorious red-light district along Fifth Avenue known as The Stinger. Now an eight-block section is being restored. On the street level will be specialty stores, boutiques, antique shopping and more than three dozen restaurants.

Along Harbor Drive are man-made Shelter and Harbor Islands in San Diego Bay, with their hotels, restaurants and recreational facilities. Tied up at Harbor Island is the stern-wheeler restaurant The Reuben E. Lee, offering an excellent view of the bay and good meals.

Seaport Village, a re-created fishing port of a century past combines English, Mexican and Victorian period architecture. It contains 100 themed and international stores.

Trivia

THE FIRST school in Granite City was called Kinderhook, what was called Kinder Station. The school was part of a church built in 1855 near the former Emerson School, 19th and Benton streets. Kinderhook was razed in 1913.

WINNER: Marilyn Horbelt, daughter of Richard and Clara Horbelt of Granite City, won first place at Engineering Open House at the University of Illinois. Marilyn, a senior in Agricultural Engineering, presented "Irrigation and Terracing Practices Adapted to Africa's Environment." The project displayed pictures and slides of irrigation work done along the Nile River, irrigation work done by the Peace Corps in the Sub-Saharan desert, and terracing work done in southern Africa.

HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW? Warmer weather brings thoughts of spring and also thoughts of planting flowers, trees and shrubs. Maintenance workers at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College had those thoughts, working on landscaping of the front of the campus.

Homegrown, sweet homegrown: It's the way corn's meant to be

Probably more than any other vegetable, sweet corn has the reputation of being prime when eaten fresh from the garden. Although sweet corn is not well adapted to the small garden, even a few rows or a small block planting can provide a few ears for a special treat. Because corn is pollinated by the wind, it never should be planted in a single row. If it is, ears will not fill properly.

The origin of corn, or maize, is believed to be the wild grass Tixiste, which is still found in remote areas of Mexico. The oldest remains found date back about 7,000 years.

Corn spread from Mexico into both North and South America. The ancestor of sweet corn is believed to have been an Andean source. In northern Peru, a well-preserved ear was dated to about the 11th century.

Sweet corn may be planted in the garden anytime after the soil is fairly warm. Most home gardeners prefer yellow varieties, although varieties with white and bicolor kernels are available. White sweet corn has been gaining popularity. Last year a variety called "How Sweet It Is" won an All America Award. It is an ultra-sweet type with two to three times the sugar content of regular varieties.

Corn varieties such as How Sweet It Is have been made possible by a discovery in 1950 of an experimental corn cross that had more sugar than normal. When the kernels of this corn dried, they shrank and had a shriveled appearance. These high-sugar varieties were named "shrunken two" (sh2). They are now marketed as super sweet, ultra sweet or extra sweet, depending on the seed company.

The next advancement in sweet corn came 10 years later at the University of Illinois. A cross that produced a sweet flavor along with tender texture was found. This was called a sugary enhanced (se) gene type.

This characteristic has been marked "EH" for Everlasting Heritage. The real advantage to the gardener, other than a very sweet taste, is that both these genetic types retain the sweet flavor much longer on the stalk as well as after harvest. Many of the newest varieties contain all these characteristics.

To retain the best flavor of the high-sugar varieties, they should not be planted close to standard varieties of sweet corn. For the small garden, the easiest solution is to grow varieties from only one of these categories. The best way to grow both types would be to plant them at different times, so they do not tassle simultaneously.

Corn grows well in any good garden soil, but has a fairly high fertility need. Compost or good manure incorporated into the soil is helpful. A garden fertilizer such as 10-10-10 may be used at about a pound per 25 feet of row, worked well into the soil. Soil should be warmed to close to 60 degrees before planting. Seeds may be planted 4 to 6 inches apart to ensure a good stand, but when the young plants are 3 to 4 inches tall they should be thinned to about 1-foot intervals.

Where there is plenty of space, many gardeners prefer to plant corn at about two-week intervals to ensure a constant supply. Plantings normally may be made until early July. Corn has relatively few pests. Early plantings usually have less severe earworm damage than later plantings.

Federal buildings to get major facelifts

Some federal buildings in the St. Louis area that are affiliated with those at the Depot in Granite City, are taking on new looks as part of a federal program to develop more productive, cost-effective and pleasing work places.

A total of about $133 million from the federal buildings fund will be spent on all of the projects.

About $25.6 million worth of projects are under way and contracts either have been awarded or will be awarded by this fall for the other projects, according to Wayne Roy, an assistant regional administrator for the General Service Administration's regional office in Kansas City.

The projects will be at the Federal Center, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., which is linked to the St. Louis Area Support Center in Granite City, the U.S. Court House and the Mart building in downtown St. Louis and the Federal Records Center, 9700 Page Ave., in Overland.

The GSA oversees office and work sites for about 19,000 federal employees in the St. Louis area.

The projects are part of a series of initiatives announced last fall, Roy said. They are designed to consolidate federal employees and modernize their offices. The GSA also is providing free space planning help. Some of the projects involve creating model work areas, he said. Many of the projects include general renovation—raising floors, dropping ceilings and automating systems—while some include additions and installation of fire and other safety measures.

The following projects are planned:

- A two-phase, $50 million general renovation of the Mart building at 405 S. Tucker Blvd. which will consolidate 55 different agencies mostly from leased office space downtown.

Roy said the agency also is expecting to include day care services and a physical fitness area for about 1,300 employees who will work there.

Contracts for both phases are expected to be awarded this fall.

- A $40 million extension of the Federal Records Center to include "high-tech" ultra-modern training and computer facilities and office space. The contract is expected to be awarded this fall, Roy said.

- A $17.5 million general renovation from industrial to office space a building at the Federal Center. An automated file system for the Veteran's Administration also would be included in the project.

Projects already under way included in the quality work place initiatives are:

- A $7.2 million construction of a new building at the Army Publications Center (part of the Federal Records Center) to integrate and automate the storage and recovery system. The contract for the addition was awarded March 31.

- A $2.9 million project at the Army Publications Center to correct fire safety deficiency items, install fire walls, modify the electrical distribution system, install fire sprinklers and upgrade the fire alarm system.

- A $12.5 million project at the U.S. Court house to improve fire safety systems and improve energy-conserving systems.

- A $3.2 million replacement of all transformers and equipment containing PCB's throughout the Federal Center.

- An $8.5 million general renovation of a building at the Federal Center recently has been completed, Roy said.

The quality work place initiatives are taking place nationwide, including at buildings in Kansas City and Des Moines, Iowa, Roy said. The GSA is doing more projects in the St. Louis area, because more projects already were under way that adapted well to the initiative plans and a high concentration of federal employees are in the area, he said.

Crusaders hammer on Warriors

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

BELLEVILLE — The Warriors got a taste of their own medicine Wednesday. Good pitching and a relentless offensive attack had paced Granite City to a 15-2 record and a 10-game winning streak. But the Belleville Althoff Crusaders used that formula to end the streak with a 9-2 non-conference win.

The Crusaders, now 12-2, took advantage of Scott LeVault's control problems plus the combination of a brisk wind and a short right field porch to break open a 2-2 game with four runs in the fifth and three more in the sixth. The Warriors found themselves out of a game for the first time all year.

Their previous two losses had come in the opposition's last at-bat.

"We're not the kind of team that will come back from a big deficit against good clubs," said Warrior coach Bob Stegemeyer. "I don't think it's ever good to get knocked around like that, but we'll just have to come back."

Second baseman Mike Luge was Althoff's biggest weapon in the game, collecting a home run and a single for four RBIs. He also made three great defensive plays.

"Mike Luge made some nice plays for us at second, and that can set the tone for the game," said Crusader coach Al Foppe. "And hitting can be contagious."

If that's true, the Crusaders might do well to catch the disease from Tom Myatt. Although Luge got more run production from his hits, the Althoff third baseman was easily the most impressive hitter of the game. His sizzling liner was caught by first baseman John Moad in the first, but he later got a double and a single on two more smashes.

Between those two hits, he put on an awesome display in the fourth. He hammered a deep shot which was ruled foul over the trees down the right field line. The Crusaders argued about the call, but he simply repeated his feat on LeVault's next pitch. This one was fair despite protests from the Granite City bench.

"The first was fair and the second was foul," Stegemeyer said. "He hit it so hard you could see it from the third base coach's box. But that didn't make much difference."

It was 2-2 by that time as LeVault couldn't keep the ball down.

"He just couldn't get it down around the knees," Stegemeyer said. "And he had trouble adjusting to the mound here."

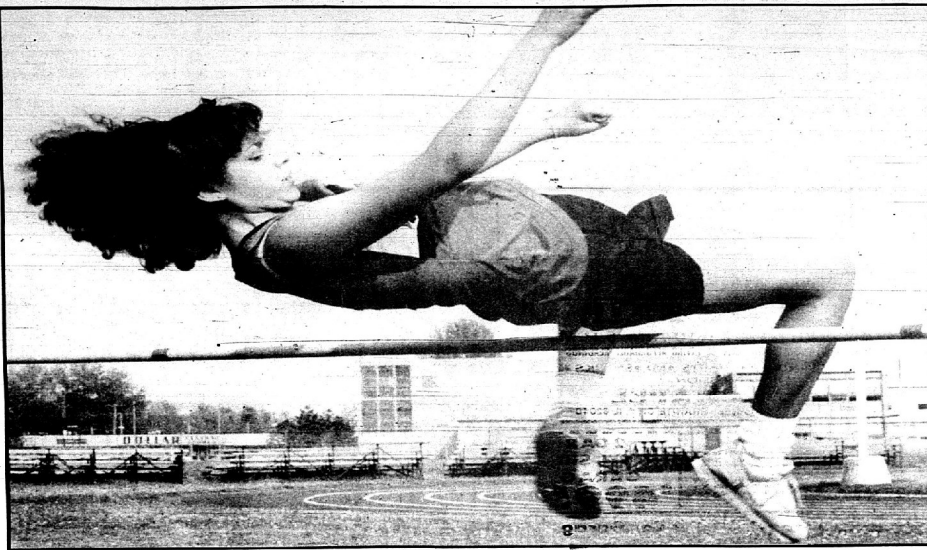

LeVault (5-2) walked the bases loaded in the first, but would have escaped were it not for a pickoff throw from catcher Dave Bamber to Moad that bounced away. Luge raced home from third.

LeVault doubled in the second, but Luge robbed Moad on a line drive to help kill that rally.

"John Moad had a great day with the bat, but no hits," Stegemeyer said.

Althoff added another run in the second on a walk to Steve Schott and a triple by Tim Oddy, but the Warriors came to life in the fourth against righthander Mike Vogt (4-0). With Randy Chapman at first with two outs, Rick Wilson lined a triple over the glove of center fielder Juan Cox to score Chapman. Wilson then raced home on a wild pitch by Vogt to tie the game at 2-2.

But the Crusaders came right back in their fourth on a double by Corey Cox and an infield hit by Schott. Tim Patterson fielded Scott's dribbler and threw late and wild past Moad as Cox came around to score and Scott ended up at second. Luge, a right-handed hitter, then went into the wind and drove it deep over the trees in right field to make it Division Track Meet Tuesday in Edwardsville. The boys took third place in the event.

GC girls 2nd at County; boys 3rd

EDWARDSVILLE — Dave McClain wasn't disappointed, just surprised.

"Last time we ran against Edwardsville we tied with them," the Granite City track coach said following Tuesday's Madison County Relays Division Meet at SIUE. "I really thought we'd stay closer to their pointwise today. But we ran as well as we could."

This is in reference to the Warrior girls track team's second-place finish in the four-team event. Granite City racked up 70 points, falling way short of eventual champion Edwardsville's 96. Alton finished third with 64 points, while Collinsville could muster only 27 points in the meet.

In the boys segment, Alton took top honors with 114 points, nine better than Edwardsville. Granite City had to settle for a third-place finish with 47 points, while lowly Collinsville scored only 10.

In the girls division, Edwardsville's Este Saverson captured top honors in the long jump, 100 and 200 meter dash to pace the Tigers.

McClain pointed to Saverson as the main reason for the Warriors' falling off the pack.

"The last time we ran against them and tied them, Saverson was out," McClain said. "I really didn't think he'd make that big of a difference, but obviously she did."

Led by Terri Selph and Paula Shane, the Warriors found most of their good fortune in the field events. In the discus, Selph's toss of 113-6 earned her first place while Shane's toss of 108-3 was good enough for second place. In the shot put, Shane earned a third-place finish with a throw of 31-9, slightly better than Selph's effort of 31-0.

Also scoring for the Warriors was Wendy Knollman, who tallied second-place finishes in the long jump, 100 meter dash, 200 meter dash and 400 meter run.

She finished behind Saverson in all three events.

Kim Ames also posted a second-place finish in the 1600 meter run with a time of 6:14.

The Warriors captured their only first-place relay finish of the meet in the 3200 medley, where Tracey Henn, Christi Rodgers, Julie Gabriel and Melissa Gabriel posted a time of 10:47.6.

In the 400 relay, Granite City finished third with a time of 6:07. King and Gabriel also came back to finish third and fourth, respectively, in the 800 meter run.

Granite City's 800 relay team finished last with a time of 2:07.2.

On the boys' side of the track, junior Vince Darnell captured the Warriors' only first-place finish with a high jump of 6-2. Kevin Sutphin finished fourth with a jump of 4-8.

In the long jump, Mike Fea earned a third-place medal with a leap of 20-9, while Dave Bassoo's 20-3 1/4 jump earned him a fifth-place slot. In the triple jump, Sutphin jumped 41-4 1/2 and John Humphrey mounted a 40-6 effort to finish fourth and fifth in the event, respectively.

Rick Dawes came away with a third-place finish in the shot put, while Paul Sutter's 10-0 effort in the pole vault earned him a fifth-place medal.

The Warriors finished third in both the two-mile relay and the 400 meter relay, and were able to settle for fourth in the 800 meter relay.

Mike Patterson finished fourth in the two-mile run with a time of 10:54, while Randy Odum came away with a fifth-place finish in the 110 meter high hurdles. Odum also finished second in the 300 meter low hurdles with a time of 40.7. In the mile run, Paul Brandt's 4:47.6 was good enough for fourth place overall.

The Warriors return to action Friday when they travel to the 16-team Marion Invitational.

Girls rally to take thriller from Tigers

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — From the depths to the heights in just 24 hours, that's the life of Jim Davis and the Warrior softball team earlier this week.

After suffering a heartbreaking 12-11 loss at O'Fallon Monday, Granite City came back with a pulsating 12-1 win in nine innings at home Tuesday over Edwardsville. The game was a makeup of a rained-out contest April 13, and it had enough excitement to make up for any five other dull games.

"What an effort by the girls," said Davis. "This is a game that could put us over the hump. It was just a terrific game."

Of course, it was a lot more terrific for Davis than it was for the Tigers and coach Kay Hyten. They scored four runs in the top of the seventh to take an 11-7 lead, then watched as the Warriors rallied for four in the last of the seventh to tie the game. Finally, Sandy Sternberg crossed the plate with the winner in the ninth on a sacrifice fly by Lisa Mills.

Sternberg was dead to rights on a good throw by left fielder Michelle Hayes, who had gunned down Amber Marsh trying to score on a Kathy Lewis hit in the eighth. But this time the throw skipped by Tiger catcher Jenny Smith, and the 2-hour, 20-minute game was finally over.

"I think the saying is 'It's never over until it's over,'" Hyten said. "That's the way it has been for us all year."

Edwardsville fell to 1-7, while the Warriors are now 5-5.

It was a seesaw game from the beginning. Edwardsville got two in the first on an RBI single by shortstop Sean Helling and subsequent hits by Smith and Courtney Ward against starter Tammy LeVault. But the Warriors struck back against Lori Kavorki, who hurled a no-hitter against Alton on Monday.

Tracy Gaudette was hit by a pitch and Sternberg got a bunt single, then freshman Michelle Bennett doubled.

"How good is LeVault?" Davis asked. "There isn't a pitcher around who can throw by her."

Bequette scored on an error by second baseman Ward. But the Tigers came back in the second and scored when shortstop Kim Pak hit a pop fly down in front of her for one run. Her finger singled home another.

Edwardsville added another in the third, but the Warriors tied it in the fourth when Kavorki hit a wild streak. Marsh doubled, then Pawlak, Lewis, Gaudette and Sternberg walked with two outs to force in two runs for 5-5 game.

Edwardsville got two in the fifth on a throwing error by third baseman Kerl Holtkamp and a two-out hit by Hayes, but Sternberg prevented further damage by throwing Sherri Schweer out at the plate.

Marsh got an RBI hit in the bottom of the fifth and Gaudette drew another bases-loaded walk against new pitcher Tracy Conley to tie it again.

"She got mentally tired," Hyten said of Kavorki.

The Tigers appeared to put it away in the seventh when they got three triples, a single and a walk against a tiring LeVault to take the four-run lead, but it was far from over.

We play the game until the end, and we knew their pitcher was having control problems," Davis said. "So we didn't quit."

Marsh and Kim Corey walked, then Lewis singled one home with one out on a dribbler down the third base line. Gaudette walked to fill the bases again and Holtkamp and Bequette drew two-out walks to make it 12-11. Then Gaudette dashed home with the tying run on wild pitch, sliding in just as

Trojans win County again; girls are 2nd

HIGHLAND — The Madison boys track team limped into the Madison County Green Division Track Meet with several injuries Tuesday, but walked away with their fifth consecutive championship in the meet.

The girls' team also had a strong meet as they pushed Highland all day and finished second.

The boys led by as much as 30 team points in the meet and won with 94 points. Their closest competitor — Highland — finished second with 55 points and third-place Triad had 38.

Meanwhile, the Trojanettes had Highland looking over its shoulder throughout the meet. The Lady Bulldogs gained an edge on Madison in the distance events and placed just enough runners in the relays to score 93 points and first place. Madison finished with 73 points and Triad had 47.

Sophomores Jessie Leonard and Ian Smith had hamstring injuries going into the meet and Leonard aggravated a quadriceps muscle injury during the meet.

The injury kept Leonard out of the long jump and slowed his times in the dashes. While Smith's hamstring injury did not keep him out of any events, it also slowed his times.

"I thought we could still win the meet with the injuries, but I was worried whether they would get more seriously hurt during the track meet," Trojan coach Charles Stappoe said.

The Trojans dominated the running events and broke two meet records.

The 400 meter relay team of Jay Blakely, Ian Smith, Jessie Leonard and Otis Ware ran the event in the time of 43.8, breaking Madison's 1984 time of 44.8. Ian Smith's 49.7 in the 200 dash
